Location:

Leipzig is located in the east of Germany, in a low-lying area in the north-western part of Saxony by the rivers Elster, Pleisse and Parthe. Its average altitude above sea-level is 118 m.

Leipzig currently has about 500,000 inhabitants. The city covers an area of 297.6 km² and enjoys a generally relatively mild climate. The annual mean temperature is between 9 and 11 degrees Celsius.

Leipzig is a traditional focus of traffic infrastructure. Having grown as a trade-fair and commercial centre at the crossroads of two military and commercial routes, today more than ever the city focuses traffic routes from all directions. So there are numerous ways of getting to Leipzig.

How to get to Leipzig 01

By car:

Because of the motorways A9 (Berlin-Leipzig-Nürnberg-München) and A14 (Magdeburg-Leipzig-Dresden) Leipzig is centrally integrated in the federal motorway network and, of course, is also located close to an important European junction.

Coming from South West, you can reach the city area by the new motorway A38 (Leipzig-Göttingen). Its junction to the A14 (interchange Parthenaue) will be completed in summer 2006. In direction to Göttingen, it will probably be realized in 2008.

The Leipzig beltway altogether possesses 14 junctions from which the different quarters can be achieved directly. For the easiest access to the city centre, please take one of the following exits:

- Coming from Berlin and Magdeburg: junction Leipzig-Mitte of A14
- Coming from Dresden: junction Leipzig-Ost of A14
- Coming from Munich, Nuremberg, Erfurt: junction Leipzig-Südwest of A38

For orientating oneself within the city, the parking and building site guidance system provides detailed information.

How to get to Leipzig 02

By plane:

Leipzig/Halle Airport is located right next to the motorway junction Schkeuditzer Kreuz (A9, A14), 18 kilometres from Leipzig and 23 kilometres from Halle.

Its schedule includes direct flights to big European metropolises such as London, Paris, Madrid, Barcelona, Milan or Vienna. Moreover, more than 25 tourist destinations around the Mediterranean and four long-distance tourist destinations are offered almost every day. Furthermore, Leipzig/Halle airport is accessible from all over the world via Frankfurt/Main or Munich.

Within Germany, there are direct flights to Hamburg, Dortmund, Düsseldorf, Cologne/Bonn, Frankfurt/Main, Stuttgart, Nuremberg and Munich.

You will get a great deal of information about arrival and departure directly at Leipzig/Halle Airport. The Airport Express train travelling between Leipzig Central Railway Station in the city centre, Leipzig New Fair exhibition centre and airport in 14 minutes has to be pointed out.

By train:

Being located right in the city centre, Leipzig's Central Station is traditionally one of the most important junctions of the German rail network. The station also has direct access facilities for cars with two multi-storey car parks: Car park East and West.

With its long-distance connections, its IntercityExpress, Intercity, EuroCity, CityNightLine and DB NachtZug connections, the station boasts good and rapid links in all directions. Direct IntercityExpress lines ply every hour from Hamburg, Berlin, Frankfurt, Erfurt, Munich, Nuremberg and Dresden to Leipzig. There are non-stop Intercity connections from Magdeburg, Hannover, Bremen and Dortmund.

A rapid link to Leipzig/Halle Airport has been established with an Airport Express train travelling between Leipzig Central Railway Station in the city centre, Leipzig New Fair exhibition centre and airport in 14 minutes.
